

Hi there,

The world may be on lockdown, but we've got some exciting news this month as we announce news of AI funding success, plus a visit from a distinguished guest...

New network on trustworthy AI

Colleagues from LIRA are part of a new £12M new project around trustworthy AI. The TAILOR project is one of four successful proposals coordinated by members of CLAIRE. The project will create a network of research excellence centres across Europe that will prepare the ground for AI research that addresses challenges in health, mobility and resource management.
